

FADE IN:

INT. LARGE ROOM

A HUGE VARIETY OF DOGS - all shapes & sizes, some well-groomed, some not so much, are at a meet & greet event.

A Border Collie has a whistle around his neck and a clipboard in his paw. Each dog "introduces" themselves as if they were in a roll-call. With voiceover.

A German Shepherd gruffly introduces himself in a heavy German accent "My family comes from Germany".

Next, a female greyhound in a sweet voice and Italian accent "Mine from Italy".

A Japanese Spitz in a Japanese accent "Mine...Japanese".

Next, "I am Native American guys".

It goes on as other dogs introduce themselves, they are from different ethnicities around the world (Mexican, Indian etc.)

It is getting pretty loud.

Suddenly the Border Collie blows a whistle, everyone falls quiet and looks at him. He asks in a cheeky voice "Who wants a bone?"

All the dogs stand up.

CUT TO:

GRAPHIC - A heart in the shape of American flag or a heart wrapped around American map.

VOICEOVER (with humor) - "no matter where we come from, we all want the same things. CHOOSE LOVE."

FADE OUT.
